OVERVIEW

Peter Dessau specializes in construction law, with an emphasis in litigation. Peter represents developers, builders and prime contractors in payment disputes and defends and prosecutes delay and impact claims against private owners, contractors and public entities. He defends and prosecutes construction defect cases on behalf of homeowners, commercial builders, developers and prime contractors. Peter also counsels members of the industry on risk management techniques to avoid litigation. His peers in the community have given him the highest rating of professionalism and ethics (“AV”) in Martindale-Hubble, a prestigious lawyer referral service.

Peter served in the U.S. Marine Corps (Artillery) from 1985-1989. When Peter is not attending to one of his five children, he is playing tennis, reading non-fiction or watching movies.

REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS
